DAUGHERTYS SON TO BE QUESTIONED IN KEENAN MURDER

Attorney-General's Son Said to Have Been Friend of Murdered Model, Knew Something of Plot to Blackmail

NEW YORK OFFICERS SEEK YOUTH AT ATLANTIC CITY

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—Assistant District Attorney Pecora and police inspector Coughlin today joined in an active search for Draper M. Daugherty, only son of the Attorney-General of the United States, to question him concerning reports that he is a friend of Dorothy Keenan, murdered model, and that he might know of the blackmailing ring using her as a decoy. A morning newspaper quotes young Daugherty as saying at Atlantic City that he was a friend of the Keenan girl and that something resembling blackmail was attempted by a man he knew because of his acquaintance with her

WOMANS CLUB TO LAUNCH CLEAN UP

Ask Merchants' Cooperation in Campaign—To Offer Prizes for Best Flower Gardens

"Whereas, the Woman's Club of Middlesboro plans within the next few weeks to put on a Clean Up, Paint Up Plant Up campaign for the further beautification of our city, Therefore, be it resolved, That we present our plans to the Retail Merchants' Association and ask for their support and cooperation in this. We would especially call attention to the deplorable habit of sweeping trash from the stores into the streets. Presented by the Civic Department."

The foregoing resolution, adopted at the meeting of the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon was presented at the meeting of the merchants' association this afternoon. Their action on it will be announced later.

The Woman's Club is planning a complete improvement campaign under the direction of the civis department. The National Federation has set aside April 22 to 28 as National Flower Week and the club plans to take part in this. Seeds will be given away to school children and prizes will be given for the best tended gardens. On Arbor Day the club will plant trees, shrubs and flowers around the suburban schools and later, when work is complete on the high school building around it. In addition to these plans for beautification a number of clean-up projects are being considered.

Kay Laurel Warns of White Way; Says Model's Murder Shows Peril

By Kay Laurell, Former Follie Beauty, Now a Star on Broadway

NEW YORK, March 27—In the shadows of shimmering lights on Broadway are enacted daily hundreds of tragedies of which the Dorothy King murder mystery was just one of the many closing chapters

For among the thousands attracted by the White Way lights—some just to watch and look on, some to feel the warmth of the glow, some to have their wings singed—are many who seek the easiest way.

And find it—the hardest.

Then, on the other side of Broadway, they fall lower and lower, until completely engulfed in the maelstrom, they give in—

Victims of drugs, drink and other vices that sap them until the very end.

On Broadway since 16, I know of these tragedies. Luckily my home training and natural reserve spared me from temptation. But many other girls weren't so fortunate.

They fell into pitfalls—some voluntarily—but mostly victims of circumstance or the connivance of scoundrels These are to found in all guises from the fatherly old men—called "daddies" —to the shekhaired lounge lizards—human parasites, all.

When a young man, not listed in the social register, has no visible means of suport, and yet seems always amply supplied with money, it's time for a girl to be careful.

But not all of them are.

Elsie Lee Hilair was well known along Broadway. She lived uptown, but loved the glitter of the cabarets. She used to sneak off afternoons and come down to the popular "tea dansants." Amiable dancing partners made her life pleasant until she was found murdered in a hotel several years ago.

Several thousand dollars worth of her jewels were missing. The police investigated, rounded up a gang of lounge lizards but never solved the mystery.

It still remains a closed book, resembling in many ways, the murder of Dorothy King, the model, whose real name was Anna Keenan: she was found dead, mysteriously chloroformed, and $10,000 worth of jewels were missing.

Both women tried to blaze a path along the White Way that would make even blase Broadway take notice. Both women finally succeeded—in death.

But the deepest tragedies come when young, naive, girls, untutored in the ways of Broadway world, become innocent victims of another's perversity.

A young chorus girl I knew had been raised in a convent. She was barely 16 when she got her first job. One night, after a long rehearsal one of the other girls gave her a sniff of powder saying it would brace her up.

The next night the novice got more. She liked it. Before she realized it she had become addicted to a drug, the name of which she didn't even know!

She tried to break herself of the habit. But it had made her its slave.

She went to another theater. The leading men there became enamored of her. The money she received from him she used only to purchase dope from a chorus man who was vendor on the side

To cast off the curse, she went to a sanitarium. But the habit gripped her again, even after she had taken the cure. Finally there was but one way out. She took it—by committing suicide.

Another girl, refined and cultured, who once played in the same company with me, became friendly with a gentleman known as daddy. His ruling passion was gambling.

Not many weeks elapsed before his younger companion contracted his fondness for watching the wheel go 'round. With bated breath she would stand for hours to see whether red or black came up.

It was not long before she wanted to spend all her time in the gambling dens. Even old "daddy" couldn't keep up with her. He finally dropped her —as most "daddies" eventually do.

Then she had to go it alone.

It's amazing to see how many dives there are for all sorts of victims. When the girl couldn't get into the more fashionable resorts, she went down the scale.

Down, down, down, until now.....

She's at the very bottom.

But the real gold diggers are not in the chorus or leading roles of the big shows. They are not on the stage at all. They live in New York's most sumptious apartments—just off Broadway—suported by men of wealth. They are unknown to the world at large until the end comes—as it did in the King case.

Then the focus of the public's eye is turned on the affair for a while—

Only to be dimmed by the bright lights which keep shining on Broadway, dazzling, drawing on, singeing and ibrowing aside.

DOROTHY KING, MURDERED BROADWAY MODEL, WHOSE DEATH PROMPTS KAY LAURELL(INSET) TO WRITE A WARNING OF THE PERILS OF THE WHITE WAY.

MERCHANTS QUIZ SHOPLIFTER THIS MORNING IN COURT

Merchants with their recovered goods under their arms crowded around the notorious shoplifter in police court Tuesday morning after the latter had waived examination. Had there not been so many merchants present, one would have though that a meeting of the Merchants' association as in progress. All of them crowded around the negro and cast glances of mingled anger and admiration at the negro ho had defeated the efficiency of their organization and the vigilance of ftheir clerks.

"I want you to tell me" said one of the merchants, after taking the negro aside, "which of my clerks was nearest to you when you stole the goods. I want to know who it is in my employ that is not watching their work properly."

"You were standing right next to me when I took it," the shoplifter answered. The merchant had no more to say.

LIQUOR SEIZED AT DOWLING RESIDENCE IN LAWRENCEBURG

Five Hundred Cases Bonded Whiskey and Imported Wine Taken, Dowlings Arrested—Search After Liquor Found in Car

MRS. DOWLING HEAD OF DISTILLERY TWENTY YEARS

By Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Mar. 27.—Five hundred cases of bonded whiskey and imported wine have been seized at the palatial residence of Mrs. M. M. Dowling in Lawrenceburg, Anderson county by prohibition director Sam Collins, it was announced here today at prohibition headquarters. Mrs. Dowling, who has been the active head of Dowling distillery for twenty years, her daughter, Miss Ida, and two sons, John and Emmett, were served with warrants in their home after seizure, charging violation of the national prohibition act. They waived preliminary trial and gave bond for five thousand dollars each for appearance in Federal court at Frankfort next September.

The Dowling home was searched after prohibition officers found whiskey in an automobile which officers said came from the Dowling home last night. The machine is said to have contained two sacks of quart bottles of whiskey. The occupants of the automobile, Charles Shelton and Emmett Martin, of Lexington, were arrested and placed under bond of five thousand dollars each.

DISAGREEMENT ON SENATE SUCCESSOR

McAdoo Recommends Shafroth, His Father-in-law, Woodrow Wilson Favors Thompson

By Associated Press.

DENVER, Mar 27.—William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury in Wilson administration, today telegraphed Governor Sweet of Colorado urging the governor to appoint Morrison Shafroth of Denver, son of former United State Senator Shafroth to the vacancy in the senate caused by the death of Samuel D. Nicholson. Yesterday former President Wilson, father-in-law of McAdoo, telegraphed Sweet asking the appointment of Huston Thompson.

SHOPLIFTER IS CAUGHT HERE

Merchandise Values About $200 Taken From Local Stores—Negro Admits Thefts

Merchandise to the value of about $200 was stolen by Percy Daniels, colored from five local merchants yesterday afternoon. In police court this morning he admitted the thefts but waived preliminary examination. He will appear before the Bell county grand jury at its next session. His bond was fixed at $2500. A negro accomplice of the shoplifter has not been apprehended by the officers.

The usual methods of shoplifters were used by the pair. Daniels' partner would call the clerks to another part of the store and while pretending to make a selection from the goods, Daniels would secrete some valuable article under his coat. Valuable silk and woolen dresses were taken from the stores of G. H Talbott, Euster Bros., R S.. Oaks and A. D. Campbell. A suit of men's clothing was stolen from T. H. Campbell. At A. D. Campbell's store one of the clerks saw part of a dress hanging below the negro's coat as he left the store. The police department was notified and Daniels was arrested a short time later on Nineteenth street.

Daniels says he is an escaped convict from the state penitentiary at Nashville. Officers say he was apprehended here about two years ago after he had committed several thefts. He had a large leather grip which contained a variety of silk ties, socks, and other merchandise. He says he has been in Middlesboro since Friday. He would not give officers any information that ould lead to the finding o fhis accomplice who is described as a 'yellow negro."

DIVINE SARAH PASSES AWAY IN PARIS HOME

World's Greatest Actress Succumbs At Last To Death She Has So Long Evaded—Spent 61 of 78 Years on Stage

PARIS' SORROW GREATEST SINCE VICTOR HUGO'S DEATH

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Mar. 27.—All France mourns today, for her well beloved daughter, Sarah Bernhardt, is dead. Paris is stunned. It seems not too much to say that not since the death of Victor Hugo has France been stirred so deeply. Bernhardt lies on her bed covered by the flowers she loved so well. Tall candles burn at either side and at the foot of her couch, in accordance with French custom the crucifix and a bowl of holy water stand on a little table nearby. The family is still too overcome with grief to discuss funeral arrangements but the funeral will probably be held Thursday or Friday.

The death of Sarah Bernhardt terminated a dramatic career of more than 60 years. Sarah Bernhardt was born in Paris in 1845 and was 78 years old. It was in 1862 that, having attended the convent of Grand Champs as a child, she began the study of the drama at the Conservatory of Paris, and during a term in which the indomitable will and determination, the nervous energy and overpowering ambition of her later years manifested itself, she won two prizes. She followed this preparatory work with a debut in Racine's "Iphigenia." This created no especial furore, and the actress' fame grew, at first slowly, and later mounting to a fervor that was almost admiration among her countrymen. Victor Hugo, George Sand and countless other notables of the world of art and letters bowed before her genius. Her first great success was in the role of the queen in Hugo's "Ruy Blas". The author is said to have fallen upon his knees, kissed her hand and thanked her for the performance.

She repeatedly made voyages to America, enjoying triumphant coast to coast tours. Her repertoire was never confined t oa type of plays. The eccentricity that always marked her life characterized her choice of roles. Her "Hamlet" was a noted performance beloved by the French. Repeatedly her physique gave way, but always her indomitable courage kept her before the public, winning triumph after triumph in the capitals of the world.

For many years Bernhardt kept a pearwood coffin at the foot of her bed and many times rehearsed her party in it. This coffin, she said, when it was purchased, would be her last restmertality she kept a human skeleton ing place. As a further reminder of in her bedroom.

At Pere la Chaise, for many years, her tomb has awaited her. Thus has passed the woman whom a noted Frenchman said he admired because of the "unknown" he felt in her.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL FOR CLAIBORNE COUNTY

TAZEWELL, Mar. 27.—A consolidated school building is the great ambition of many citizens of Claiborne county and the foundation for one is now being laid at Midway between the two Tazewells near the Claiborne High school building. The brick and much of the other building material is now on the ground.

The purpose of the school is to save the county the expense of paying so many teachers as well as tobe a convenience to children and patrons. The school at the four places as follows are to be taught at this new building: Blue Top, New Tazewell, Dogwood, Old Tazewell and Thompson's Chapel.

START BOSWORTH TRAIL SURVEY NEXT FEW DAYS

H. H. Asher Announces First Step In Important Development of Direct Road Through Mountains to North

COUNTIES GIVE BOND ISSUES FOR CONSTRUCTION

H. H. Asher, state highway commissioner, returned to Pineville, Saturday morning from Frankfort, where he has been the greater part of the week, with the announcement that the survey for the Bosworth Trail will begin this week. This survey will start from the Richmond end. All of the money is in, according to Mr. Asher and the actual work of surveying will start within the next few days.

This is the first step in the important development of this road which will open up the territor around Red Bird, and which when completed, will connect Pineville and Middlesboro, with Manchester and other mountain towns to the north.

Clay county has turned over to the state a $200,000 bond issue to be used for this road construction. This county was only asked for $13,000, to pay for the survey, and this larger sum will greatly quicken the Bosworth Trail's construction. This $200,000 bond issue had been passed several years ago but never used.

Jackson county has voted $125,000 for the new road and Bell county. $100,000. and Madison county has agreed to construct the road from the county line to Richmond. Work on this is already started.

P. T. A. TAG DAY WAS BIG SUCCESS

Nearly Five Hundred Dollars Raised—Work on Auditorium Already Started

Four hundred and seventy dollars was raised in the Parent Teachers' Association tag day last week and, with the amounts still uncollected from solicitors, this will probably net five hundred dollars, the goal set by the committee in charge. Those in charge are highly pleased with the result and they ask that their appreciation be expressed to all who bought tags and especially to those merchants who made additional contributions to the fund.

Work on the auditorium started this morning. The walls and woodwork will be painted, new shades and curtains will be put up, and, if the money holds out, a new curtain for the stage will be purchased as the one now in use is quite dilapidated.

The grade children raised $285 selling tags and the high school $50. The balance was collected by the P. T. A committee. Miss Barbara Bisceglia's sixth grade room collected $41 and will be given the party for the winning upper grade room. Miss Sallie Keller's third grade room, with $22, was winner in the lower grades. The sixth grade party will be held Thursday and the third grade party Wednesday each at 3 p. m. in the Domestic Science room.

Prizes for individual sales will be awarded this afternoon as follows: Upper grades, Virginia Gunn, seventh grade, raised $14.65, prize three dollars; Elizabeth Bates, sixth grade, raised $8.62, prize, two dollars; Bessie Collier, seventh grade, raised $5.89, prize, one dollar. Lower grades, Myrle Hubbard, third grade, raised $12.86, prize three dollars; Elizabeth Evans, third grade, raised $5, prize two dollars.

Color Music

I seem to hear the singing of the flowers of the field,
The subtle tone of purple in the hills,
And all the choral witchery of tall
trees in the rain,
The organ-point of green from waving
grass;

The ocean's green monotone; the sky
a chord of blue,
With white staccato notes from floating clouds;
The sunlit cliffs sing yellow in a virile
dissonance,
While contrapuntal brooks make fugues of joy.

TODAY'S RECIPES

VARIETY IN SAUCES

When Brillat Savarin, French statesman, came to this country in the early part of the nineteenth century he made the observation that in the United States he found many churches but only one sauce, whereas in his own country they had many sauces but one church. To this day many people know but one sauce—gravy.

A sauce shoud be smooth, glossy and consistent. No lumps and no watery, thin places in it.

The thickening for sauces is either starch, as as flour or cornstarch, or egg yolks. Butter is usually the fat, and in making the white or brown sauces, the butter and flour are blended together and kept white or allowed to brown, depending on the sauce desired. The liquid is milk, cream or stock made from meat or fish.

A fish sauce is best made from fish stock. For boiled fish sauce use the water in which the fish was cooked as the liquid to be combined with the butter and flour. To fish sauce may be added lemon juice, chopped parsley or pickles, red and green peppers, capers, ketchup chile sauce, and hard-boiled eggs or raw yolks of eggs.

For brown sauces the best flavor is obtained by cooking the vegetables, especially the onion, in the butter or fat used.

A sauce should be stirred often, and at the end vigorously. It is best strained no matter how smooth it may seem.

A good proportion is two tablespoons (level) of butter and the same of flour to a cup of liquid.

Egg sauces are either hot or cold. If hot, the eggs are combined with butter and some acid and cooked over water. If cold, the egg yolks are blended with salad oil, and the sauce is not cooked. The first is Hollandaise; the second is mayonnaise.

TALBOTT'S

The carriage or motor car is as much an adjunct of social life as is the ball room. There is a correct carriage or car for every occasion, but few are wealthy enough to have them all. The same social usages, however go in the main for all private conveyances. Deportment that's proper for the limousine is generally proper for the humble taxicab.

Carriages and Motors

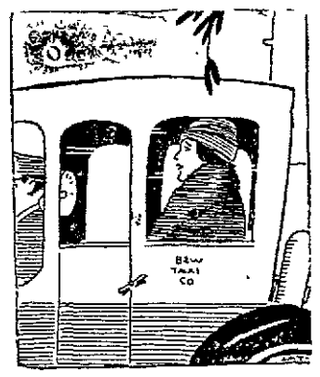
It's correct for a man to put his hand under a woman's elbow to assist her into a carriage or motor.

In alighting the man gets out first and offers the woman his hand to assist her.

A man never holds a parasol over a woman's head when she is stepping out of or into a carriage or car; he does hold an umbrella over her in bad weather.

A woman always sits in the seat on the right.

A man, unless very well acquainted with a woman sits facing her when they are riding in a taxicab, and not on the same seat.



IT'S BAD MANNERS for a woman unaccompanied, to ride alone in a taxicab.

Spring Coming

Like moonlight on white jade
The water slips
Over the conquered ice.
The water drips
From all the edges where
The earth is seen
Ruddy and ready for
A drift of green

There has been too much white.
Up winding slow
Toward Cancer, the high sun
Turns fields of snow
Into a radiance
No eyes can bear,
As if the Holy Grail
Were hidden there.

And then the gray days come
When treetops are Outlined with low sky,
And from afar
A light, wet wind creeps in,
And you're aware
Of something that we call
"Spring in the air."

No one knows what it is.
The children go
Out to the marshes where
The pussy-willows grow.
Perhaps they'll hear some bird
Come early north,
Or see some sleek young snake
Come slipping forth.

The woods are very still,
I can hear nothing
But one striped chipmunk shrill,
Queer chattering
And the low running sound
Where waters go
Over jade-white ice
And tarnished snow.

"BLOSSOM TIME" TO SHOW IN MIDDLESBORO NEXT YEAR

"Blossom Time," the famous Schubert musical play which has received such a welcome this year everywhere it has been shown, will be in Middlesboro in October. Mr. C. O. Brown announced the scheduling of "Blossom Time" this afternoon for the benefit of those lovers of fine theatrical art who have many times requested that the play be brought here.

Summer is coming and the smoke nuisance will be less, except for the cheap cigars.

Want May Day For National Child Health Day

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—Make May Day, this year, a national children's health day.

That's the ambition of a group of New York society women, who aim to better the health of 25 million children in the United States, including the two million babies born each year.

"May Day belongs so especially to the children," says Mrs. Oren Root, leader of the health crusade, "that it seems the time, above all others, to call attention to the importance of child health. It marks the time when children return to the outdoors, the gayest season of the year."

Five thousand men and women are working under the banner of the Child Health Association.

Surveys are being made in 81 cities representing all sorts of climatic and industrial conditions, to show just how much milk each child gets, how pure it is, what medical supervision and care is given to the children in the schools, and what opportunities for healthful play and hygenic homes are afforded.

They are even going into the matter of what time each child goes to bed at night and what time he arises in the morning!

"We want to make use of all this information to emphasize that child health is the personal concern of every citizen in the United States," Mrs. Root declares.

"We hope that, wherever these May Day celebrations are held people will ask themselves: 'Is the water supply of our community pure?' 'Are vital statistics properly kept?' 'Are our children suffering from malnutrition?' 'Is our milk supply properly inspected?

MRS. OREN ROOT

"In other words, we want May Day to mean a day for the people of the United States to stop and think of these things, and having thought of these things and having thought—to act.

Mrs. Root calls attention to the fact that physical examinations given 22 million school children, show that five million have defective eyes, a million have defective hearing, a million have active tuberculosis, and a quarter million have organic heart trouble, and three to five million are underfed.

"Showing surely," adds Mrs. Root, "that something should be done."

Fashion Writes "Q. E. D." To The Proposition That Successful Sports Frocks Are Well Printed

That if straight line is the shortest distance between two points was proved by Euclid, in 300 B. C. That the shortest cut to social success for a sports frock in 1923 A. D. is to combine printed and plain materials, especially when the skirt is sand tinted Trembiant, and the blouse, piquantly colored Cinderella, is demonstrated to everyone's satisfaction, by this eminently successful model whose swagger and even slightly boastful air is justified by the admiration it receives on its promenade. Still following in the mathematician's footsteps, we are told by Henri Creange, authority on silk design, that geometrical patterns in vivid colorings are much liked this season. The coloring is in bright shades of orange, blue and rose, with a touch of the black which is never absent, either in design or background, from the fashionable silks. Such a costume as the one sketched is equally at home on the courts, the links, or the beach, for it is as comfortable as it is smart. The low collar, the roomy sleeves, the ample pockets, are all built for speed, as one might say, as well as style. The skirt, of Trembiant, one of the new silk and glos novelty satins sponsored by Cheney, is much in the mode, with its deep inverted pleat allowing for a firm "stance." And by the way, it will be handy to remember that glos is the new name by which artificial silk is to be known in the future.

A THOUGHT

And ther came of all people to hear the wisdom of Solomon, from all kings of the earth, which had heard of his wisdom.—I Kings, 4:34.

These are the signs of a wise man: to reprove nobody, to praise nobody, to blame nobody, nor even to speak of himself or his own merits.—Epictetus.

DRESS UP FOR EASTER

Springtime is the time for dressing up and all nature knows it. When the trees and grass and flowers come out in spring attire and the birds show forth their brightest plumage, is it any wonder that ordinary humans find the appeal for new Easter clothes very hard to resist?

There is such an obvious pride, too, shown by nature in her new Easter dress, a pride which proves again the femininity of Mother Earth. She knows that her fine new dress of green embroidered in the choicest of spring flowers, is beyond reproach for 1923 wear and that is always a satisfaction. There must be considered, also, the fact that every spring rain, instead of marring the new dress as in the case of mere humans, but refreshes it and causes it to gleam more beautifully than ever.

Is it any wonder, then, with such an example before us, set by this infallible teacher, that we yearn for new dresses and new hats and new suits? The desire to dress up at this time of year is instinctive and our instincts should not be repressed. So, if we must stretch a point, and be hungry and cold, both or either, later, let us keep in tune with nature now.

INDIFFERENT COUNCILMEN

The regular meeting of the city council had to be postponed last night on account of the absence of some of the members. This means that the city's business must be held up for a fortnight certain members failed to perform their duty.

The absent councilmen may have had some sort of excuse, doubtless did, for excuses are easy to make. It is noticed, however, that the six who were present last night are present on almost every meeting night. Their business and private affairs are doubtless as important as that of the others. Clearly, the absentees have no real excuse for being absent from almost every meeting and their delinquency can be attributed only to their utter indifference in the affairs of the city which they have been elected by the people to conduct.

Several citizens were present last night and it is known that at least some of them had important matters to bring before the body, yet were compelled to go away disappointed and to await the convening of the council which may or may not take place in two weeks, this depending on the inclination of the members.

INCREASE SAVINGS

Heavy increases in the total savings deposits for 1922 in the 830 savings institutions reporting to the Federal Reserve Board are down in a report made by the board. The average increase of the reporting institutions, said to represent about 77 per cent of the total savings for the county, was given as more than half a billion dollars for the twelve month period.

Savings deposits in the 830 banks aggregated $5,837,362,000 on January 1, 1922 and $6,282,172,000 on January 1, 1923, a gross increase of more than $445,000,000.

The increases shown were almost equally distributed over the country, the board's figures showing that every Federal Reserve District had greater savings deposits than on the preceding January 1.

The above figures embodying the report of 830 banks are in accord with the report just issued by the American Bankers' Association which shows an increase in savings for all the banks of the country in 1922 over 1921 total $1,500,000,000.

The figures are respectfully referred to those who doubt the soundness of the foundation upon which American prosperity is based.

So many relics of ancient days are being dug up. It must be the fishermen hunting bait.

Fellowship of Prayer

TUESDAY
His Final Declaration

"And Jesus said, I am." Mark 1461, 62.

Read Mark 14:51-65.

"It is the open eyes looking out upon the world which Jesus has made new, that furnishes the testimony to the mission of Jesus which can never be destroyed."

MEDITATION: Do we believe the declaration of Jesus? He gave us the way to prove its truth, "If any man willeth to do his will, he shall know." Are we willing to prove him?

HYMN:

My faith looks up to thee,
Thou lamb of Calvary,
Savior divine!
Now hear me while I pray,
Take all my guilt away,
O let me from this day
Be wholly thine!

PRAYER: Grant us, O Lord, in all our duties thy HELP, in all our perplexities thy COUNSEL, in all our dangers thy PROTECTION, in all our sorrows thy PEACE, for the sake of Jesus Christ, our Savior. Amen.

THE HERMIT
❖ ❖ ❖ ❖ By Berton Braley ❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

The hermit sat in his lonesome cave,
Behaving as hermits shouldn't behave,
For he spoke up loud and he yelled it clear,
"Oh gosh-a' mighty, it's lonesome here!

'I had a trouble, I had a woe,
My heart was broke and my spirits low,
And I felt so doggone bad inside
That I went and I came out here to hide.

'But gosh-a' mighty, I'm tellin' you,'
(It was empty air he was speaking to)
"Although I'd fled from the busy throng
I found my trouble had come along!

"It sat at the table it shared my bed
It filled my heart and it filled my head
I'll tell the universe life is bum
When trouble is all that you've got for chum.

"An' 'way out here in this lonesome spot,
I've come to see that a guy has got
To face his trouble—for come what may.
It's wholly useless to run away.

"I'm going back to the place I came,
To fight my battle an' play the game,
Just like the others, who, I opine,
Has got their troubles the same as mine!

"An' maybe I'll find some friend who'll be Willing to listen at times to me
When I spill my trouble into his ear
For gosh-a' mighty, it's lonesome here."

LETTER FROM LESLIE HAMILTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR BOY:

As you knew that I was going to do, I went to see your friend, Miss Priscilla Bradford, on Friday afternoon and took her to the cdub to tea with your cousin, Mary Alden—she calls you 'Cousin John Alden.'

I think my young sister, Alice called the turn when she said—"Les, they are dumbbells."

The first word your Priscila Bradford said to me was, "You know I have played and quarreled and made up with your fiance ever since we were young children. I could tell you much about him that you do not know."

I answered, "I expect that is so. You see, he never spoke to me very much about his boyhood friends. With the exception of Sydney Carton I don't remember that he ever mentioned one of them, either man or woman, to me. We had so short a time together that I guess we did what all lovers do—used all of it talking of ourselves.

Sometimes, lover mine, I thing perhaps that is the sweetest part of loving—this saying "when did you first know that you loved me" and 'isn't it more beautiful than we could possibly have dreamed" and "think of it, sweetheart, this is the way it will be forever," and all those other exclamations that go to make up the long, long conversations of lovers.

"Have you arranged for all your bridesmaids," Priscilla asked me (that name just suits her). I knew by the the way she asked it that she thought I ought to ask her to be one, but I won't John. I'm only going to have pretty girls to be my bridesmaids and so I answere—"Oh, yes, with the exception of my young sister here, they are all classmates at school."

Her face fell at this, and Mary Alden spoke up—"No bridegroom gets much consideration at his own wedding does he? One might think that sometimes he might want some one of his relatives in the wedding party."

"Not in America," I answered. 'You see, over here it is one of the times when the girl has the center of the stage and no one notices the bridegroom except to sense the fact that he is in 'the conventional black.'

Just then, Alice spied Karl Whitney coming in from the golf links, and she called him over. Karl was only too glad to come, for although I have not said very much to you about him he has played and quarreled and made up with me since we were children' and everybody in this town expected us to marry. As you said to me about Priscilla Bradford, I think, in fact I know, that Karl would have been glad to have had me for his wife.

Mary Alden was tactless enough to tell Miss Bradford—"this is the man we all thought Miss Hamilton would marry."

Karl, bless his heart, loyal to me to the last, answered, "This man had no such impression as that, Miss Alden although he would have been happy to have been principal in the coming drama instead of standing on side lines and giving a wordless blessing."

I could have hugged him! Yes, John, I really could.

I think that's about all of interest that happened. Those two girls never did say a word unless I started the conversation. I knew they were criticizing me from the top of my marcelled hair to the new buckle shoes on my feet, which, by the way, have high French heels and contrasted greatly with their sensible oxfords.

Darling, I'm so glad we are not going to live in your old home town. I never could be friends with your Priscilla Bradford if I should live to be a thousand years old.

You haven't said one word to me about whether you ever told another girl you loved her. Surely you did not tell that Bradford girl that, did you? Don't think it is too trivial a question to answer, John, for I could not bear it if I thought you had made love to some other girl in just the dear way that you have made love to me.

Not that I am jealous. Oh, no, I never could be jealous: that is an acknowledgment of inferiority and I thank my stars that I have no inferiority complex.

Dear boy, I am rambling along in this letter just for the mere sake of talking to you. It some way brings me almost within your dear arms. I let my imagination revel a little and now I'm sitting on the arm of your chair, my cheek tight against yours, and instead of writing it, I am saying—Jack, I love you and I am just as impatient as you for that day when you and I will be one and I will go away together with you—just you and me."

Where are we going on our wedding trip, John? I hadn't though of that before, because be it far or near, east or west, north or south, I care not if you are with your own,

LESLIE.

Husband Plotted Her Death as He Made Love, She Says

MRS. JOSEPHINE LANZIT, VENICE (CALIF.) BEAUTY, AND HER HUSBAND, JOSEPH J. LANZIT (IN INSERT), WHO SHE CHARGES PLOTTED TO KILL HER WHILE HE STILL WAS MAKING LOVE TO HER.

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 27.—Making ardent love to his third wife while he fashioned an infernal machine to blow her to atoms, is the confessed murderous duplicity of Joseph J. Lanzit.

Lanzit, 62, was arrested in the act of planting a dynamite bomb, said by experts to have been powerful enough to raze 50 houses.

He and his intended victim, Mrs. Josephine Lanzit, noted beauty and prominent business woman on Venice, Calif., disagree only as to his motive. He claims it was insane jealousy. She, supported by investigating officers, says it was a monstrous greed.

The two had been temporarily separated, Lanzit carried on his fervent love making over the phone. A Canadian war veteran whom Lanzit sought to use as an accomplice, informed the sheriff.

An Ardent Lover

"All the time he was plotting this diabolical thing," says Mrs. Lanzit, "he was as sweet and affectionate as could be, calling me endearing names and pleading for my renewed faith. "He telephoned many times a day. But his heart was distilling murder under the honeyed words.

"I married him because I was lonely, after short acquaintance. You know how we woman fall for these ardent lovers and their caressing ways. But within a few minutes after marriage I sensed that something was wrong. It was my money he wanted—and that only."

Mrs. Lanzit had $50,000 worth of property. Her mother, also an intended victim, together with her brother, according to the confession authorities attribute to Lanzit, possessed $150,000.

Once a Millionaire

The district attorney, to whom Mrs. Lanzit pictured her husband as "a Bluebeard," immediately began investigating her declaration that Lanzit's second wife died shortly after he took out heavy insurance on her life, and that he had told her the cause of "number Two's" death was not what the records showed. His first wife, he said, he had divorced.

"It was jealousy," stolidly maintains Lanzit, formerly a wealthy and prominent manufacturer of Chicago, once reated a millionaire.

"There was another man. But I've made my bed, and I'll lie in it."

He faces a long prison term, for attempted murder.

Soviet Russia wasn't satisfied with her official relations with China. That is, the Chinese weren't giving Russians all the concessions they wanted. So Russia fired up a new set of rules and asked China to sign on the dotted line. China neglected to do so.

The Russian envoy at Peking gave the China government three days to attend to it, it was an ultimatum. China's so much, you see, that it never occurred to her to do it. Without hesitation a minister she ordered him out of the country, causing what diplomats call "a strained situation."

KENTUCKY FARM BUREAU CONVENTION THIS WEEK

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Mar. 26. The annual convention of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation March 27 and 28, tomorrow and Friday, will be a "real working conference, rather than a speech-making convention," the executive council has decided.

All speech making has been eliminated from the program, it was announced today, and instead a number of matters important to the federation will be taken up for consideration. Among these are:

"Do you believe it advisable to increase the dues of the State Farm Bureau?

"Do you believe that all new local marketing associations should be tied up with the county farm bureau so that members of the marketing associations will become members of the county farm bureaus?"

Among those scheduled to participate in the round table conferences are Geoffrey Morgan, former secretary of the Kentucky Federation and now manager of the field service department of the Dark Tobacco growers.

BANDIT?

Pittsburg (Pa.) detectives saw a suspicious looking "young man" loitering around the Union Depot. They walked over to question "him." A revolver flashed at them. In the scuffle that followed, the "young man's" cap came off, revealing a shock of blond bobbed hair. It was a girl. At headquarters, she said her name was Helen Bateman. But she's refused to answer any questions. She participated in several taxicab holdups, police say.

Consideration of the appointment of a secretary to succeed Mr. Morgan, who resigned March 1, probably will not be made until after the convention, it was announced, the executive committee explaining that it wished to give consideration to all applicants.

Solving the Problem of Decorating Walls and Ceilings

Where a finish for walls and ceilings is desired that will withstand rough usage, and yet will not surrender that soft, delicate tone that is so distinctively beautiful in modern homes—use Pee Gee Velkoatt.

It is a finish in itself when used on wood. It dries with a satin or eggshell effect. It has the appearance of hand-rubbed enamel, by reason of its hard, non-porous surface.

While you are giving thought to refinishing walls and ceilings, or perchance woodwork, Velkoatt offers a solution to your problems. It is sanitary, washable, and has a semi-gloss finish.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

Prohibition—Quizzes—World Flight—Europe

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—Prohibition violations have figured, from some angle or other, in every one of the investigations in progress in Washington. Now a movement has been started in the House of Representatives to start "new" investigation to go into the dry law question, to get together all this material that other committees have stumbled on accidentally and to decide finally, if possible, what ought to be done about the Volstead act—whether there's any way of enforcing it or, if changing it is the only way it can be made to work.

Congress' Rights

In the attempt by Martin Littleton, the big New York lawyer, to keep the oil investigators from questioning Harry Sinclair, a plan is seen to stop, for all time, such congressional inquiries as are going on now. Littleton says Congress' business, under the constitution, is to make laws, not to try cases, like a court.

He admits this point never has been raised before, but he thinks it ought to have been, and he believes he can make his objection stick. If he succeeds, he won't prevent court trials of cases like Teapot Dome, but he doesn't mind court trials so much, because court rules would bar a lot of the questions the congressional committees ask.

'Round the World

Army and navy aviators really expect "some," at least, of the four military flyers who have started around the world, to finish the trip on schedule time. It's true that the journey could be made faster by train and boat, but the experts predict, as more flights are made, that the record will be cut down and down and down.

Pretty Ticklish

Naval officers speak of the revolution in Honduras, where United States marines are ashore, as a pretty ticklish affair. Not but what they're confident of the devil dog's ability to take care of themselves, but with a crowd of local disturbers hot-headed enough to fire on the the American legation and consulate, and even on the marines, they say it's hard to tell what kind of a situation may develop. It might even mean an American occupation for a good while.

Same Old Thing

Trouble has started again in Ireland, just as everybody supposed things were quiet there for good. It began with an army mutiny, and although this was settled after a fashion, by giving the mutineers their own way, there's been an aftermath of guerilla warfare ever since—not mere outlawry but regular battles, with machine guns and many other modern improvements.

THE NEWS FROM PINEVILLE

HEALTH OFFICERS IN FROM RED BIRD

Examine Students at Settlement School—Community Needs Doctor Badly

PINEVILLE, Mar. 27.—Dr. George Hays, Bell county Health Officer, and Miss Frances Dreisbach, health nurse, returned Saturday night from Red Bird where they made examinations of the pupils in the Red Bird settlement School. Between seventy and eighty students were examined for diphtheriar immunity and between 15 and 20 per cent reacted positively.

In speaking of the school, Dr Hays said that the pupils were well taken care of by Prof. DeWall and the nurse but that the community needed very badly a doctor He said that he found everything most sanitary and that the dormitory, the way it was kept and run, is a revelation to that community.

Dr. Hays was greatly interested in George Burns, a thirteen-year-old boy who has had infantile paralysis As a result the child has to crawl on his hands and knees wherever he goes. He is in the third grade of school and very bright The other students carry him part of the time to relieve him Dr. Hays believes that unless he is sent to Louisville for treatment that in time his hands will become deformed too.

WHO IS MOST PERFECT WOMAN

Bell County Women to Enter Contest For Goddess of Health at Exposition

PINEVILLE, Mar. 27.—Who is Bell county's most perfect woman? That is the question which will be answered when all the contestants have been examined. But to enter you must be between sixteen and thirty, and you must get in touch with Dr George Hays, county health officer, before April 21.

The most perfect woman in Kentucky will impersonate "Hygeia," the goddess of health, at the annual National Health Exposition t obe held in Louisville from April 26 to May 5 The exposition is given in an effort to encourage medical and public health education

Hygeia will reign as "Queen of the Exposition," and will, besides the honor given her, be presented ith a magnificent silver trophy.

The examination is free to all who wish to contest. Those desiring to enter should see or write Dr. George Hays, Bell County Health Officer, Pineville, and if you cannot come to Pineville to be examined, Dr. Hays deputize a physician in your community to do it.

GEN. PERSHING ON THE HORSE

An Eloquent Tribute from the Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army

The officers of the United States Army are a unit in their enthusiasm for the Remount Service They realize that without the work of this untiring and unselfish organization the Cavalry branch of the army would be deprived of the type of horse required for remounts Stock farms have been established at various points where, under the direction of Army officers, thoroughbred sires mated to selected mares are producing a half-breed strain which furnishes the ideal mount for the cavalry Leading turfmen of Kentucky, New York, and other states, have donated these stallions to the army, many of them having long and honorable records on the race track.

In a recent address Gen John J. Pershing gave an interesting description of his experience with the horse during his career as a soldier. He said:

"Speaking of horses, though, which you are interested in, you know, that about the first recollection I have is of riding a horse in a lead team of a six horse outfit that dragged a self-rake reaper across the wheat fields of northern Missouri. So you see I had a very early introduction to the horse; in fact, I was raised on a horse, that is to say, they raised me—it took two or three men to do it. After that, I naturally became interested in horses and used to ride my father's colts, and insisted on breaking most of them. This early love for the horse followed me up to the time when I finished my course at the Military Academy, and joined the cavalry

"If you really want to know something about the horse, you ought to join the cavalry. General Moseley and I were brought up in the cavalry, and as I do not see that there are any other two officers here who belong to the cavalry, you and I, General, can have the time of our lives this evening talking about the cavalry.

"My service in the cavalry was associated with the horse, as I spent a great many of the earlier years of my service astride a horse riding through New Mexico, Arizona, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho and other states I always had the best horse in the troop; at least, it was not my fault if I did not, and often I have had the best horse in the army Today I own a string of horses that have won very many prizes in the East.

"The horse, to start with, is a wonderful animal. If we could have had more horses in the World War, we might have done a lot better, because there were times when a good many of us, like the character in Shapespeare, would have given a kingdom for a horse. There were occasions that presented themselves where cavalry, as used in the American Army, had opportunities that we could not take advantage of because we did not have the horses. We did not have the sea transportation to get them over there.

"I was at the Horse Show in New York a few days ago—a real horse show. (Of course, this is the Horse Association of America, not a horse show). There I saw some very fine horses,—all classes of horses—saddle horses, hunters, jumpers, draft horses, carriage horses, dray horses, and then just horses It was a fine exhibition and one that would have interested any horseman, and as I inspected the various classes, I felt that within a few years the horse must really come into his own. There was a time when everybody thought he had to own an automobile. As for myself, I would rather spend an hour on a horse than to spend a day in an automobile

"My fondness for the horse, and my desire to ride whenever there is a chance has given me a great deal of pleasure I believe that horseback riding and handling horses helps to keep men and women young and active I have passed through periods of very severe strain during my life, when my nerves have been tried to the limit, and I believe that if I had not kept my body fit and my mind clear by riding I might have been an old man by this time The simple, noble nature of the horse calms and quiets the nerves That is another reason why I love horses so much So I am glad to be with people who know and understand horses, and I am especially happy to give encouragement to this association, because there is a larger sphere than is generally conceded for the horse. The economical use of the horse in many practical ways on the farms and in the cities should be given careful study, as the results would undoubtedly be of very great encouragement to horse breeders.

"The time has not come when we may say that the horse is only to be seen in museums. This faithful animal has been of too great service to mankind, in business and in pleasure, to be allowed to disappear When we call upon him, the horse carries us to the limit of his ability and exerts for us the last ounce of his strength, and whether the days be long and the sun hot, or whether it be cold or stormy, whether we urge him through the darkness of the night, we always find him ready to serve.

"That reminds me of some remarkable rides that have been made by American cavalry. In the early days in the southwest, we used to have what we called manoeuvres. We were stationed in small posts, often very far apart. These manoeuvres were carried out by a troop of cavalry, here and there, being detailed to act as a raiding party to represent Indian raiders, while corresponding troops were detailed in pursuit. Of course, we enjoyed this very much, especially the youngsters I am still a youngster, as far as that is concerned, but I was more of a youngster then than now. The object was to make officers and men familiar with the country, and to teach them what a horse could do and how to take care of him. It was not a question of riding a horse without mercy, but you had to come in at the end with your horses in good condition. It was done according to certain rules, and some quite remarkable marches were made

"I do not know that I can recall all the details now, but I made one march myself with a troop of cavalry and a pack train of 130 miles on a stretch from 6 o'clock one morning to 3 o'clock the second morning thereafter, with only a five hour rest, and all the horses and all the pack mules arrived in fit condition I was the pursuing party in that instance and not the raider.

"In another instance where I was playing the part of a raider, an officer of the old Sixth Cavalry, a Lieutenant, started out and marched 110 miles without stopping, excepting a few minutes to rest, water and feed He continued his march for 23 hours, in which he made the above distance and, needless to say, he overtook my command and made us prisoners.

"We, of the cavalry, today are still making tests to determine the breed of horse that has the greatest endurance, so we are all interested in establishing, maintaining and breeding the very best horses for all of the different classes of work that the horse may be called upon to do in the army."

Black moire is one of the really fashionable materials of the moment. This photograph shows you one of the most effective things you can do with it. Drape it into a sleeveless model and allow a sash to start at the shoulders and make its way without interference to the hem. Then add a necklace of brilliants and you are all set.

LOCAL BAPTISTS AT PINEVILLE REVIVAL SUNDAY

A party of Middlesboro people attended services held at the First Baptist Church at Pineville Sunday morning. Dr. Stair's sermon was said to be excellent. After the services the party lunched at the Continental Hotel. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Smith, Mr. and Mrs Elmer Russel, Dr. and Mrs. O. O. Stone and W. H. Gibson.

Stays Bobbed--and Banged

TWO BANGED-BOBBED HAIR STYLES WORN BY MISS DOUGLAS PAINT (LEFT) AND MRS. WILLIAM GRANT OF ATLANTA.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 27—Don't be too hasty girls, in deciding to put up your bobbed hair.

You'll find you'll have to cut it anyway, to keep astride with fashion. In fact ,you'll have to cut the front down to bangs if you would be up to the minute in hair style.

That's the word Atlanta society women have brought back here from the Florida winter resorts. The wave of banged-bobbed hair has already reached this city and is moving northward and westward with remarkable rapidity.

There are two styles of bangs—the straight, a la Buster Brown, and the curly fringe type The former seems to have been adopted by the brunets, while the blonds have taken to the curl. And their popularity is growing, despite the "official" ruling against them.

"It's just like the short skirt," says Miss Douglas Paine, pretty Atlanta debutante "They ruled that out for a few short months, but no it's back and this spring and summer dresses are going to be even shorter than ever

"Women may like to change styles in dresses and hair arrangements, but when they come to one that's sensible and stylish. too, it takes a deep root and a long time must pass before it goes out of date '

L. M. U. T. GIVE ELABORATE CANTATA FRIDAY NIGHT

Personality by the Bottle Now!

ANN HAVILAND PREPARING SOME OF THE PERSONALITY PERFUME.

NEW YORK, March 27—Perfecting personality through perfume! That's the job of Ann Havaland, who is said to have the most sensitive nose in the world. The creme de la creme of the social and business spheres come to her little laboratory just off Fifth Avenue for their proper perfume combination.

"A person's charm or lack of it," says Mrs. Haviland, "should be discrimatingly supplemented. This I endeavor to do—by compounding a special perfume for each personality.

"For instance, the flapper, really innocent, though desiring beyond all else to impress the world with her sophistication, should use a spice such as carnation or phlox combined with mignonette and helitrope—if she is brunet.

"If blond, I might suggest that spicy odor given off by the yellow firefly rose. A redheaded flapper should be careful and tone down her personality with the modest yellow violet!

"Then there is the clinging-vine type girl, I would suggest basil and verbena with perhaps a touch of eucalyptus. The young, modern grandmother of today can use the sweet tangy quince blossom.

"Often the young mother has a wonderfully gracious personality; she will have a fresh, sweet enthusiasm a sympathetic quarity of charm and such I make a rose perfume, blended with oils; when she leaves the room there remains a lingering memory of her—and who would not retain it?

"There is the Olga Petrova type—for her I should use a gardenia base, Something at once sensuous, yet cold.

"Perfume for men? Yes men, too, have their individual perfumes.

"But nothing like sweet oils from flowers for them! Masculinity can only be rightly supplemented by roots, herbs and moss!"

For her are the cozy soft orors, Chinese bell-flowers and sweet alysisum, petun in or sweet pea. For such a type as Viola Dana, I would use a dog-tooth yellow wood violet; for the blond Vivian Martin or Margolo Gilmore, a white violet and lilac combination.

"Various people of the same type naturally have to be sub-divided into groups, according to their individual characteristics. Appearances alone tell me nothing. Sometimes the conventional, prim type of woman will ask for a perfume of white rose. This amuses me, for next to musk and sandalwood, white rose is the most sensuous odor.

"The masculine assertive type of woman should be supplemented by some perfume that is insidous, that softens the effect of her gruffness and subconsciously makes up for her lack of feminine charm

"For the domestically inclined girl there is fuchsia, of the primrose family; for the intellectual, the prefume of the wild grapevine with its fresh high note of cleanliness. For the athletic

What Perfumes You Should Use

The proper perfume for your personality!

Here's a list prepared by Ann Haviland, maker of rare perfumes. If you are—

Brunet—use carnation or phlox.
Blond—firefly rose.
Redhead—modest yellow violet.
Clinging vine—sweet pea.
Domestic type—fuchsia.
Intellectual type—wild grape vine.
Athletic—basial and verbena.
Mother—Rose blended with oils.
Grandmother—tangy quince blossoms
Men—Roots, herbs and moss.

Feminine Frills

Jabots of net or Irish lace are frequently seen on beige or navy blue tricotine dresses for spring wear. Lace frills frequently appear in the sleeves too.

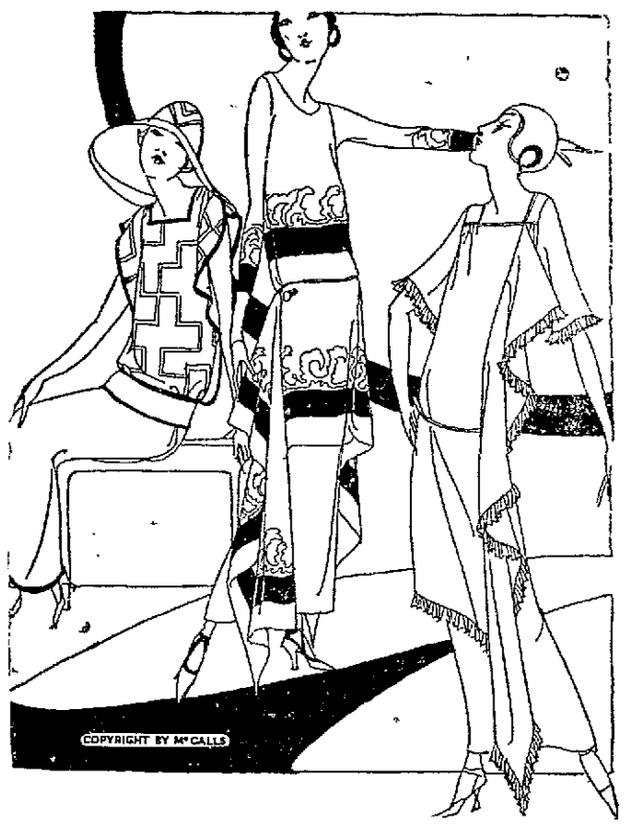
Voile Night Gowns

Night gowns of silk voile come in all colors and are as plain or as fancy as one desires. Frequently they are embellished with double hemstitching or ribbon bindings.

Printed Crepes

Printed crepes are never more effective for the young and slender than when made with simple, loose basques, full skirts and with quaint Priscilla collars of white organdie or crepe, This type of frock has been very popular at winter resorts and will continue throughout the season.

DRAPES AND RUFFLES MAKE SPRING STYLES



Hhere are the new points in spring dresses:

Drapes—In front, in back, on the sides. Any or all of these places

Sleeves—Very short or full length. The medium-length sleeves apologizing for their existence by an unusual cuff or ruffled trimming.

Waistlines—Still low and sometimes wide yokes fitting smoothly around the hips.

Necklines—Suit yourself. They're all good.

Skirtlengths—Suit yourself again. There's good authority for every length from knee to ankle and no international court to settle matters.

Trimmings—Pleats, ruffles, tucks. Embroidery, of course, and some beading. Many gowns are entirely untrimmed .but are made of the most exotic figured stuffs.

SPECIAL ELECTION FOR SCHOOL BONDS

PINEVILLE, Mar. 27.—The city council met yesterday in special session and decided to call a special election April 22 to vote on bonds for school improvements. A $35,000 bond issue was voted in Pineville last year but this was held invalid by the state court of appeals. This necessitated the calling of another election to raise funds for the proposed improvements. The council voted yesterday tomake the issue $41000 this time.

Special registration will be held April 14 for the election. The bond issue carried almost unanimously before.

EDUCATION DAY PROGRAM FOR KIWANIS CLUB

W. R. Pool and Supt. Bradner Were Day's Speakers

BOSWORTH TALKS

Tells of Legislature Accomplishments —Club Votes to Invite Insurance Men Here In June

An interesting educational program was given before the Kiwanis Club at the regular luncheon hour today, after the regular business had been dispensed with. A. D. Campbell was chairman of the meeting and introduced the speakers. Warren Rash drew the attendance prize.

The first business was two letters from J. H. Chesney. The first urged the Kiwanis Club to back the "Buy In Middlesboro" proposition as a club and individuals, to the extent of getting Middlesboro flour, bread and all products possible. The club voted to do this. The next letter concerned the bringing of the state insurance men's convention here in June. The committee is quite favorable to the convention here, which may mean three or four hundred visitors, and Mr. Chesney suggested that the club send the committee an inviation. This the club voted to do, delegating President Blackburn to write the letter.

Resolutions on the death of the father of Dr. T. T. Gibson, a Kiwanian, were read by the secretary. A. H. Humphries, new business manager of the Middlesboro Daily News, was called upon to introduce himself, then the educational program was started.

Supt. J. W. Bradner spoke first, emphasizing the real value of Kiwanis, not as a money maker for its members but as an avenue of service to the community, a place for the exchange of ideas and the rejuvenation of one's own self.

W. R. Pool followed with a brilliant eulogy of the Kiwanis Club, his subject being, "What Kiwanis Means to the Community." This club, he said, had changed the whole social complexion here, had substituted self-forgetfulness for self-consciousness and had shown taught men how they could enjoy themselves. It had been back of every worthwhile educational and moral movement, he said, and stood as a building organization of the past, present and future.

Hon. Joe F. Bosworth, just home from the state legislature, was then called on to speak, the applause and ovations of the club indicating to some degree this section's appreciation of what he had done for it. Judge Bosworth praised the manner in which the mountain people had stood together, regardless of politics, and he declared that every bit of legislation effecting this section which he had sponsored had gone through at the last legislature. He spoke particularly boosting the $75,000,000 bond issue, and urging every one here to get behind it. Taxes will be the same, with or without bond issue, he said. The only difference is the shortening of the time in which roads may be built. He told of several road projects in this section which had been added to the primary system and urged support of Middlesboro in influencing Leslie County to vote a bond issue to apply on the proposed road from Hyden to Beverly. In closing he showed that a fair deal is assured because Major E. S. Holburn of Middlesboro is on the highway commission.

GEO. BRADNER ONLY 3 LETTER MAN AT CINCINNATI U.

George Bradner, son of Supt. J. W. Bradner and a fourth year student at the University of Cincinnati, has recently been awarded a letter in basketball. This makes his third letter in athletics, a distinction enjoyed by no other student of the university. He is now going in for baseball and his chances of winning distinction in this sport are considered favorable.

James Bradner, Jr., also a fourth year student at the institution, recently won the lightweight boxing championship of the university. Both boys are making good records in their class work and are interested in a number of school and social activities.

ROXIE REFUSES TO GIVE NAMES IN OIL DEAL

Said Yesterday 5 Men Made $33,000,000 In Oil Stocks

ANSWER EXCUSED

Senator Resents Implication That One of Five May Have Been Warren Harding

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—Roxie Stinson, Divorced wife of Jess Smith, spent an hour on the witness stand in a Daugherty investigation today. The counsel for Daugherty insisted she tell the names of five men who she said Smith told her they made thirty-three million dollars dealing in oil stocks. The committee ruled names irrelevant and the witness was excused without further reference to it. "My impression is," said Senator Chamberlain, "she was going to say Jess Smith told her one of the five men was the president of the United States." Senator Ashurst there upon shouted, "we are not going to walk in your trap. You would like very much to have us be charged with having besmirched the name of some one now dead."

COMMEND WORK OF LOCAL LEGISLATORS

Woman's Council Thanks Moss And Bosworth for Constructive Work

This office has been forwarded a copy of the following letter, written by officers of the Women's Joint Legislative Council, from Frankfort, to Senator White L. Moss of Pineville and Representative Joe F. Bosworth of Middlesboro:

"The Women's Joint Legislative Council, which is composed of the League of Women Voters, the Parent-Teachers' Association, the Consumers' League, the W. C. T. U., the Home Economics Association, the Girls' Friendly Society, the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the Daughters of Isabella and the Social Hygiene Association, desires to express to you its prompt and grateful acknowledgement of the noble fight which you waged for righteous government in the Kentucky Legislature of 1924.

Your defense of the present law governing our Charitable and Penal Institutions was an outstanding accomplishment. The needs of these institutions make a special appeal to the motherhood of Kentucky, and their proper management is a matter of conscientious concern to all women.

"We are not unmindful of the moral triumph achieved and of your large part in that triumph.

"Congratulating you and the consistency which elected you, and looking forward to seeing you and like associates in the session of 1926, to further guard the causes which we hold just, I remain,

Sincerely and gratefully yours,
JESSIE LEIGH HUTCHINSON,
Chairman.
JULIA R. GUNN,
Extra Secretary.

MUST MEND STREETS AFTER PLUMBING EXCAVATIONS

Complaints have been received by the city officials that plumbers and other persons making water or sewer connections have been cutting places through the pavement and not properly covering such excavations.

Mayor J. H. Keeney says that there is an ordinance requiring that permits for such work must be obtained before it is begun. Persons doing it without permit are subject to arrest and upon conviction, a fine. He declares that all persons thus apprehended will be dealt with to the full extent of the law.

Even when permits are granted for such work, the workman is required to mend them and not merely pour rock or gravel into the excavation as has been done in recent instances.

STATE PARK BILL MEANS PROGRESS

Commission Will Set Aside Large Areas in Kentucky for Parks

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Mar. 27.—With the passage by the general assembly of senate bill 306, introduced by Senator Charles B. Truesdell, of Campbell county, creating the Kentucky State Park Commission, the state will, within the next few years, enroll itself among 25 others in the union, that have set aside large areas for recreation and park purposes, for the preservation of wild life and for the erection of bird sanctuaries.

The bill passed the house March 19 by a vote of 64 to 5; in the senate on Friday, March 14, 27 to 2.

The personnel of the commission of three, provided for in the measure, would comprise, it is generally understood, Dr. Willard Rouse Jillson, director of the Kentucky Geological Survey, chairman; Dean Thomas Cooper, of the State Agricultural College; and a third member, to be appointed by the governor (this member preferably to be a member of the National Conference on State Parks.)

One of the first steps of the commission would be its identification with the National Conference on State Parks, which is to meet at Gettysburg, Penn., on May 26, 27, and 28. The state is to be represented at this year's conference by Vance Prather, of Fort Thomas, Ky., who also will represent the governor, by appointment.

Some fifteen or twenty sites in Kentucky are at the disposal of the commission, and some of them are obtainable at much less than their face value. These selections will be announced to the people of the state, through the press, from time to time; but the location of the sites, obviously, is withheld from publication now because the values might be increased by such publicity, it is understood.

TREES TO BE PLANTED AT OUTLYING SCHOOLS

Trees were planted at the four outlying schools yesterday from the supply furnished from the Community Chest fund and others will probably be placed on the high school lot.

So many calls were made at the city hall that the supply was exhausted before noon Tuesday. Most of them were issued to citizens who set them out on the street in front of their property. The trees are three or four years old and will within a few years be an ornament to the town and furnish shade.

ACCUSED FAYETTE CHIEF KILLS SELF

Charged by Louisville Prisoner As Having Bought Stolen Autos

By Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Mar. 27.—Orville Stevens was brought here from Louisville today to testify before the grand jury in connection with a number of alleged stolen automobiles which Stevens alleged he sold to county police whose chief, Frank Hall, shot and killed himself last night.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Mar 27. On the wall of Senator Samuel Moffett Ralston's office, hung when he faces it as he sits at his big desk, is a fresh picture.

It shows a great hairy mastodon, of prehistoric times, being beset by a host of uncivil aborigines, armed with spears. It is a battle of many against might with casualties on both sides, for although the beast is frenzied the spears thrust through his hide, he has whirled one of the natives aloft with his trunk and is about to dash him to the ground.

The picture stirs Ralston's imagination.

"It represents to me," he tells his friends, "the eternal conflict between Democrats and Republicans."

In Ralston's interpretation, the great beast is the Republican party. Its human antagonists are the Democrats.

And just as surely as the aborigines brought about the final extinction of the mastadon, Ralston believes, the Democrats will work the ultimate final overthrow of the G O P.

Anyway, it is on this picture that Ralston gazes as he meditates whether to enter the contest for the Democratic presidential nomination this year. He already has substantial backing.

* * * *

The sweeping defeat of Oscar Underwood by William Gibbs McAdoo in the Georgia Democratic presidential primaries has not dampened the Alabama senator's determination to make the bitterest possible fight for the nomination.

Georgia Underwood's backers explain, is inclined to claim McAdoo as a favorite son, since he was born near Marietta, that state.

To prevent the duplication of the Georgia result in other states, if possible, Underwood's candidacy has been placed in the hands of an active manager, C. C. Carlin, former congressman from Alexandria, Va. Carlin managed A. Mitchell Palmer's fight for the Democratic nomination in 1920.

Oliver P. Newman, former newspaperman and commissioner of the District of Columbia under President Wilson, has assumed command of Underwood's publicity guns. As "Ollie" was not only a crackerjack reporter in his day, but also a major of artillery in the late war, some hot shots from his batteries may be expected.

* * * *

Despite the fact that William Jennings Bryan announced, in Omaha, that he might consent to head the Democratic ticket again, if drafted, he has little chance for the nomination. There might be an investigation—and scandal if he did run.

For—sssh!—speak it in whispers William Jennings Bryan has a financial interest in the Democratic result. Three checks from Bryan's family, one from Bill himself, one from Mrs. Bryan and one from their daughter were recently received at Democratic headquarters. Doubtless they could be produced under subpoena from an investigating committee. The checks were—yes, sir—for exactly $5 each!

REVOKES PAPERS OF EXTRADITION

Governor Will Not Allow Deputies to Be Tried for Murder in Virginia

Notice that he has revoked extradition papers issued for the deputies charged with the killing on the Virginia road a few weeks ago was received in a telegram from Gov. W. J. Fields yesterday afternoon. The message, in full, reads:

"Notify Virginia officials that I have this day revoked warrant issued March 23 on requisition of Governor of Virginia for arrest and extradition of D. C. Sellers, B. S. Saylor, Millard Overton and Lester Bishop."

Chief Ball immediately replied to the telegram as follows: "Please permit me to say that I have nothing whatever to do with the matter; I am not pushing the case nor am I interested in it in any way. Permit me also to suggest that you notify the Virginia officials who asked for the requisition as I prefer not to take any part in the matter whatever."

REV. J. V. LOGAN, FORMER PASTOR HERE, IS VISITOR

The Rev. J. V. Logan, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, is in Middlesboro today, coming here from Pineville last night, where he assisted in the funeral there yesterday of the late F. A. Heath. The Rev. C. L. Nisbet of Norton, Va., formerly Pineville Presbyterian pastor, was in charge of the funeral.

COOLIDGE TRIMS JOHNSON LEAD

California Senator 221 Ahead of President In S. Dakota Primary

SIOUX FALLS, Mar. 27.—President Coolidge trimmed a few votes from Senator Hiram Johnson's lead in Tuesday's Republican presidential primary. Fifteen hundred of seventeen hundred precincts in the state gave Johnson a lead of 221.

AL JENINGS TESTIFIES HAMON SAID THAT HE PAID MILLION TO GET HARDING G. O. P. NOMINATION

L. & N. TO GET NO COAL IN BELL

Contracts Let Outside This Section At Prices Below Cost Here

That the L. and N. railway contracts for coal during the ensuing year were all let outside of Bell county and this immediate section was the report received here yesterday, according to local coal operators who had bid for contracts.

Most of the contracts were let in the Hazard and Harlan fields, it is understood, at as low a price as $1.65 to $1.75 a ton. This is cheaper than coal can be produced here, operators say.

Local business prophets say that this means dull business here during the next year as Middlesboro's business depends on the coal industry and the mines can not run regularly without contracts. The only salvation, undoubtedly, will be the development of new industries.

CHARTER FOREIGN WAR VETS HERE

Local Organization Would Include Men Who Saw Service In Foreign Land

Charter for a local order of Veterans of Foreign Wars has been applied for and should be received here within the next week or ten days. An organization meeting will be held when the charter comes and other members will be initiated.

The membership will necessarily be restricted, only those who have served in the United States army, navy or marine corps in wars on foreign soil or in foreign seas being elegible for membership. Capt. A. D. DeBusk who is taking the initiative in the organization work says there are about 100 men in Middlesboro and vicinity who are eligible for membership. Ten charter members have been secured.

Though no definite plans for the organization meeting have been made, it will probably take place in the K. of P. hall. Its exact date will depend on the arrival of the charter from Lexington. All men who are eligible for membership are urged to be present.

The F. V. W. has been in existence since 1899. It grew and flourished from mebership from the veterans of Mexican, Porto Rican and Philippine wars. When the first soldiers began to return from France during the World War, however, the order began to rapidly expand all over the United States. Now it has posts all over the country.

It is the only organization composed entirely of foreign wars veterans. As such it does all in its power to aid the service and ex-service men. The organization believes in the doctrine of Roosevelt—one, flag one country, one language; is tolerant, not political and non-secretarian.

William B. Gould, deputy chief of staff, has been in Middlesboro this week in the interest of the organization. He has formed organizations at Barbourville, London and other places in this section and is in Pineville now to organize a post.

ODD FELLOWS MEETING IN LEXINGTON YESTERDAY

An efficiency meeting of the secretaries of all Oddfellow lodges in Kentucky was held at Lexington yesterday. C. E. Cooke and W. B. Jones attended, representing the Middlesboro lodge. About three hundred members were in attendance. A number of interesting speeches one efficient Oddfellowship were heard.

Speakers for the meeting were Judge W. R. Garber and Hon. M. M. Logan of Bowling Green, Grand Master James Denton and Past Grand Master Julius Helburn.

New Studebaker Busses

Two attractive and comfortable busses began operation on the Pineville-Barbourville line yesterday. One of the cars has been christened "Little Joe" while the other bears the sobriquette "Lady Luck." Bothe are Studebaker cars of twelve passenger capacity. They are operated by Joe Asher of Pineville.

Oklahoma Oil King Was To Have Been Interior Secretary

BRIBED PENROSE

Reformed Robber-Preacher-Politician Tells Startling Story—Penrose's Secretary Indignantly Denies

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—Al Jennings, once famous train robber, now evangelist and politician, was called upon by the oil committee today to make good his promise of a "whale of a story" about the oil deal at the Republican National Convention in 1920.

Jennings told the committee Jake Hamon told him at the Chicago convention that Warren Harding was to be nominated as president and that it cost Hamon a million dollars. Of this sum a quarter of a million went to the late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania. Jennings said he was told by Hamon, who then was the Republican national committeeman from Oklahoma and who subsequently was killed by Clara Smith, that Hamon said he gave $25,000 to Harry M. Daugherty, and $25,000 to Will Hays.

Hamon is quoted as saying he was to be secretary of the interior and was to share in public lands. Jennings also quoted Hammon as saying that with the money he would make there he would eventually become president of the United States. The Republicans carried Oklahoma for Harding, the witness said, adding that Hamon told him it cost him half a million.

Referring to the promised appointment of secretary of interior, Jennings said Daugherty was at first in favor of Albert Fall for the position but that he had bought them all over though it cost him a lot of money to do it. The conversation took place in a Chicago hotel room, Jennings said.

"He told me Harding would be nominated next day and that it cost him a million dollars," Hamon added. Jennings said $25,000 was given to fourth person, a man from Ohio, "well some one in Ohio," Jennings related. "The money was used indiscrimately with the Oklahoma delegation." Jennings said, and quoted Hamon as saying it "cost him like hell to get the New York delegation."

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—Ighten Taylor, former secretary of the late Senator Penrose, in a statement today, branded as false and preposterous the story told by Al Jennings to the Senate oil committee today. He declared he was in constant attendance upon Penrose while he was ill in Philidelphia before and during the Chicago convention and that Hamon never had seen or communicated with Penrose.

COMMISSIONERS' SPECIAL MEETING

Street Ordinances Pass Second Meeting—Discuss City Licenses

Ordinance providing for the improvement of streets and alleys which passed its first reading Monday morning on its second reading at the special meeting of the mayor and board of commissioners this morning. Some amendments to the specifications for the work were made.

W. J. Callison protested the paving of the alley at the rear of his store and of the small section of Twenty-first street running from Cumberland avenue to the canal. He claimed that the property owners could not afford the expense and that the improvement is not necessary. He was assured that the work could be paid for on the ten year payment plan, that the alley paving would run from Twenty-first to Eighteenth street, thus serving all the business houses it passes.

The matter of fixing the city license for the year was discussed. The list of business and professions thus taxable is now being compiled. Auto license tags for private cars, taxis and will be obtained soon for issue in May.

Judge J. R. Sampson, Ray Moss and Harry Moss went to Pineville yesterday to attend the funeral of the late F. A. Heath.

SPRING STYLES

8-MAR-23

Morning, Afternoon, Evening Gowns Show Individuality

Here are three appropriate gowns for the three daily changes—morning, afternoon and evening. The smart little suit at the left is of tan tricotine and is of the sort of an outfit that should occur annually in every woman's spring wardrobe. The afternoon frock of embroidered crepe has an interesting drapery and unusual lines. The sleeveless frock for evening is of orchid satin trimmed only with pearls.

Novel Sleeves

Circular ruffles and cape-like frills are greatly liked as relief from the sleeveless of the very long sleeved frocks of the season.

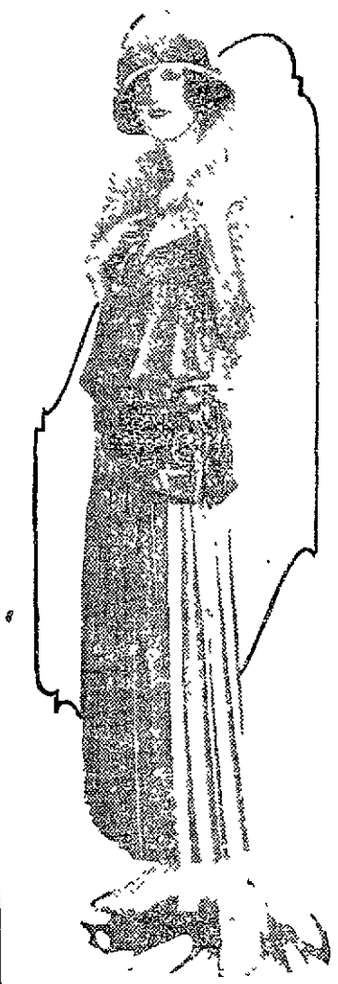
For Evening

Evening bandeaux are made of filet lace and satin ribbon and pink silk elastic and have no straps over the shoulder.

Suede Hats

Smart suede hats worn to match suede coats are frequently trimmed with quills of cockades of ribbon.

VOGUE FOR SIMPLICITY



Simplicity was never before so popular as now. Join a simple pleated skirt to a plain blouse, add a small lace collar and a ribbon girdle and you can be as smart as you please. Good materials and good lines take precedent over ornamentation this year.

Tailored Nightie

A new nightgown made by a famous French designer is made high in the front with a little turnover collar such as one might expect on a sport blouse. It has short sleeves and is trimmed with double rows of hemstitching and a monogram of generous size.

Dots And Beads

A blue georgette frock with white dots the size of a penny has each little dot outlined with red beads. It's much more attractive than it sounds.

Summer Frocks

Summer dresses of voile are trimmed with hemstitching and embroidedy in delicate colors. They are usually cut in one piece and held in about the waist with elastic.

Ribbon Hats

Ribbon hats are popular and are not difficult to make at home if one has plenty of patience and a little skill. Usually the ribbon is finished with picot or a fancy edge and has sometimes a tinsel effect or a double face.

Ambitious Collar

A gown of printed silk is equipped with a collar of plain silk which follows the neckline, then goes down one side, is caught in at the waistline and then descends below the hem of the frock, giving the effect of a wide panel.

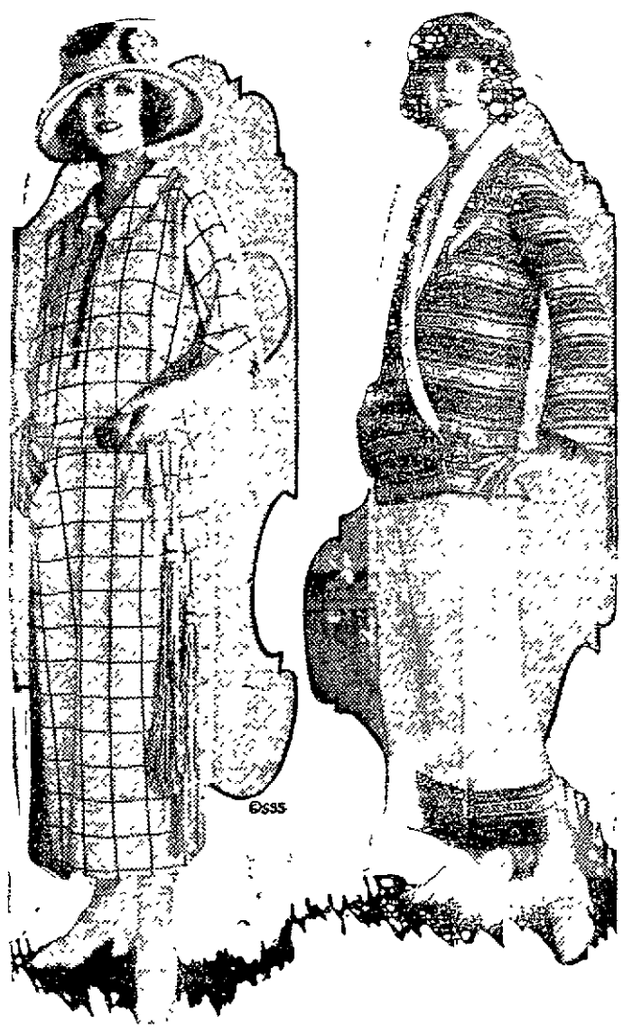
Bloused Coat

The bloused coat is poular, but it is an excellent style for short women to avoid. Loose, unbelted coats with straight lines are a much better choice for a woman who is short on inches.

Bouffant Dance Frock Is Girl's Delight

The bouffant frock is making a strong bid for popularity and meeting with excellent results—particularly with the younger set. This dance frock is of pink taffeta trimmed with tiny ruffles of silver lace and a butterfly bow of the taffeta. The scalloped hemline is an original touch.

Riot of Color Attends Simplicity in Design



Even if you do not care for sports you are bound to care for sport clothes this season. The flannel frock, at left, with its simple lines and knowing girdle, is in the popular combination of black and white. The knitted frock has a simple straightline white flannel dress and a jacket of Egyptian design in which reds, blues and greens run riot. Yet the whole effect is by no means flashy.

A Thought

Use hospitality one to another without grudging—1 Pet. 1:9.

It is not the quantity of meat, but the cheerfulness of the guests that makes the feast.—Clarendon.

SPRING AGAIN

The ancients sought diligently for the Fountain of Youth and moderns are just as persistent in ther pursuit of youth through glands, or serum, or whatever the last faddist may offer. Yet for all ages and all times, the only real Fountain of Youth is the spring of the year.

These first warm days of sunshine, how they call to us! Birds singing, early flowers abloom, grass turning green as we watch it, the fresh breeze stirring. Who is not young again now in body and heart?

"It's as easy now for hearts to be true, as for grass to be green and skies to be blue; it's the natural way of living," the poet said. And when the whole world is so bright and kindly it is indeed difficult to stay outdoors long and keep a grievance.

Undoubtedly that would be a remedy for many of the world's ills, any way. When men used to be more out of doors they were kindlier, less money mad and had more time to think about the right and the wrong of the matter. When they considered nature they could but realize that the whole world belonged to a power far superior to them and that what part of it they gained possession of was but a trust for their period of life. Nowadays, though, with such an abundance of man-made offices and factories and machines, it is difficult for one to feel that whatever he can get his hands on is not his for keeps.

VISION AND PROGRESS

Without vision there is, nor can be, any progress and to those who are mentally active enough to behold pictures of accomplishment are due the respect and recognition of others who sit idly by.

The Asheville Western Carolina Motor Club, incorporated, has in it men who beheld a vision of a passable Eastern Dixie Highway. In this picture they saw two kinds of travelers, those seeking pleasure and those seeking business, coming and going in ever increasing numbers. They realized that the Dixie Highway possessed at least three outstanding points of vantage. First: Its shortness and directness; second: unequalled historic interest; and third: scenic value that is not excelled in any part of the country.

The first of these qualities is of advantage both to tourists and business men and the other two are of especial interest to the tourists and in no wise objectionable to the business men. Here was real value to those living along the route that could be capitalized and made to yield worth-while annual returns through the investment of a comparatively small sum of money.

The big question was how to secure the funds needed. This has been solved by a North Carolina Motor Club, principally through the efforts of Mr. Buckner, its managing director, and Mr. O'Connor, supervising engineer. These men are naturally interested in the advancement of North Calorina, but their interest is far from being altogether selfish because it was realized that Kentucky could also share in the profits made from its possession of the three natural advantages named.

After about six months earnest work, a total of $113,500 has been raised, or subscribed toward the maintenance of stretches of the Eastern Dixie Highway in Knox and Laurel counties. This work will be done largely in anticipation of the tourists returning from Florida late in March and early in April. Seventy-six thousands dollars have been subscribed by private individuals and firms while $37,500 comes from state and county sources. The largest individual contributors so far are $25,000 from Cincinnati; $10,000 from Detroit and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce; $6,000 from Lexington, and other smaller amounts from different sources. Practically all of the gasoline sold between Middlesboro and Richmond during the next twelve months will bear a voluntary tax of 1 cent per gallon. Paris has also entered into this agreement. No doubt other towns will do the same after they are convinced by actual demonstrations that the plan is a success.

The money collected will be deposited in local banks and disbused by local committees as needed for the maintenance and repair work.

Surely Kentuckians should respond to the efforts of men from a neighboring state to make passable a north and south road through Eastern Kentucky, especially when Kentucky has nothing to lose.

The fact that the Eastern Dixie Highway in this state is considered so important a link in the National System is emphasized when money was raised as far away as Detroit. Mr. Buckner in a recent letter expressed his confidence in the undertaking in the following words:

"We have looked with longing eyes for this through highway to Cincinnati, which will carry tens of thousands of cars from the Middle West to and through Western Carolina resorts and Florida. They spend enormous sums of money as they travel, and many fall in love with the territory through which they pass and come back and buy. With sufficient funds collected and placed in banks, we fully believe we can get the road so it will be passable with a fair degree of safety and comfort.—Kentucky Road Builder.

THE PROPOSED NEW CHURCH

Nineteen centuries ago a Man chose twelve disciples of varying creeds and beliefs and through them built a church upon a rock against which the gates of Hell have not prevailed. It is a strange fact that such types of men as the doubting Thomas, the mystic John, the wavering Peter and the steadfast Matthew should have fulfilled the unity of purposes which produced christianity. The death of their Leader, the prosecution of the Christian martyrs, the superstition of the Dark Ages, the internal strife between sect and sect—these have only strengthened the foundation of the church.

Today there has arisen a new controversy which has its roots in the ancient discoveries of scien e. A new school of theology which really is as old as man has set forth its tenets. This school is divided into parties of the Modernists and the Fundamentalists. The warfare between these two factors bid fair, some say, to wreck the church. A certain number of the latter party has risen who state in clear and concise terms that there is no hope for religion unless the Fundamentalists—those who take all by faith—establish a new church.

The first natural thought which arises is that the Modernists have the same right to make a similar claim. However, to a person who can see both sides, this is a clear case of the pot calling the kettle black and vice-versa. Opinions which can further no end are futile.

The greatness of the Protestant Church is founded on its acceptance of the fact that every individual has a right to believe as his conscience directs. Yet there are people on both sides of the present question who are trying to impose boyhound interpretations of life and religion on their fellowmen. The truth that personality is sacred cannot be violated: every man must search his own soul and find there what is religion for him.

Any scheme for establishing a new church is not feasible. To attempt it would bring about a hopless upheaval. Every individual must know God in his own way whether he beholds Him in the passing of the tempest or in the solution of a work-a-day problems. The numerous creeds of mortality are as leaves in the relation of man to the Unseen Forces.

There is but one church universal, and that church is founded upon the words of Him who said:

I am come that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly.

Mohammedan mosque, Buddhist pagoda and heathen shrine alike must pass under the shadow of the simple cross, the symbol of service to mankind. Men will wrangle over dogmas and doctrines in the future as they have in the past, but the spirit of Jesus Christ will reign supreme above their petty quarrels. The church upon which religion depends is not one composed of men who hold certain prescribed beliefs; the religion to which the world is looking is that one which upholds an equal opportunity for all men; a spirit of universal service and a sense of world brotherhood.

Bergdoll, the draft evader, is willing to return and pay the penalty if they will promise not to make him pay it.

Even if your life is an open book there are times when you should turn over a new leaf.

To err is human, but to keep it up is foolish.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

THURSDAY
Entering the Kingdom

Read Mt. 7:13-23. Text: 7:21. Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven.

To a daily life of now is the time. "Salvation means being saved from from a daily life of growing selfishness to a daily life of growing unselfishness and its inevitable enlargement of life. It involves a deepening acquaintance with God, to know whom is eternal life."

Meditation: "Doing the will of the Father"—there is nothing higher in heaven or in earth than to be sharers of the divine will. When one is committed wholeheartedly to the great enterprise of making God's will supreme, he has united his life with the ongoing life of God, which union will continue through the long reaches of the life to come.

Personal Question: Have I the courage of high profession knowing that it means making good or acknowledging hypocrisy?

Prayer: Eternal God, help us to do some service for thee today. Let our daily work bring blessings to others. May we be at one with thee in the deepest places in our lives, that thy purposes may be our ideals. May we begin this day with a close feeling of the infinite and continue with an abiding sense of the eternal, in Christ's name. Amen.

CASTAWAYS
Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

IN business a necessity, at home they're needed, too. Just handy things that work both night and day at catching useless cats and ends that, very often, you and every other person cast away.

Their secrets? No one knows them, yet a wierd and motley tale Their son would be a love and business life. A mixture of discarded things from scribbled notes to mail that, spread, would make a paper crazy-quilt.

"I love you," and "Sincerely yours," "We're mailing you today." Such writings are reduced to shredded scraps. They've borne their little messages, are torn and thrown away and only left a memory, perhaps.

The bank checks of a month ago and many bills, marked paid; the ads that have been peddled at very high, are crumpled rather recklessly and these at rest are laid—just castaways, not needed any more.

And thus a necessary part we le paper baskets play as home and work life travels to and fro. The secrets buried in the scraps that people throw away are secrets only paper baskets know.

Heard Outside

Station WGY in Schenectady is looking beyond the borders of the United States and Canada for records. It reports having been heard in Lisbon, Scotland, South Africa and other distant points recently.

Around the World

Children listening in on WGI, Medford Hillside, Mass., weekly, are taken on a virtual trip around the world by wireless. Music from various countries, in regular succession is presented to furnish the round-trip sensation.

Hearty "Applause"

A single night's program by WJAX, Cleveland, brought in more applause than any large theatre in the country can give in one night. The operators counted 35000 letters of appreciation for a single night recently.

Adventures of The Twins

NO. 6—PATENT-LEATHER PUSS PAYS A PENNY

"This is great for me!" he shouted at them.

"Well," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz, the pipe-cleaner man, when the Twins got back to the courthouse in Doofunny Land, "did you find the tin mouse?"

"Yes," said Nick, "he's under a board and won't come out. He says to tell you he isn't there!"

"That shows that his guilt is as plain as the tail on my back," said the patent-leather cat. "I knew it all the time."

"I'm not so sure about that," said the rubber dog, and he whistled indignantly through the top of his head, by drawing in a deep breath and then letting it out until his sides touched.

"Gentlemen! Gentlemen!" cried Mister Fuzz Wuzz, hammering loudly. "This is no place to fight. And since the mouse won't come to court, the court will go to the mouse. Come on ladies and gentlemen."

The napkin rabbit saw them coming and flopped his ears with joy. "This is great for me!" he shouted at them. "I can't move because I and coming untied. But now I'll see everything."

"My goodness gracious!" cried Nancy. "I could have tied you together. I never thought of it. Here I'll give you a good pull and you'll stay together for a long time. There! How's that?"

"Oh, fine, thank you!" cried the napkin rabbit, hopping around and shaking his nubbin of a tail. "That's like old times."

"Say," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz sternly, "is this a trial or a hospital for fixing rabbits? We'd better get down to business. Sit down everybody. Where did you say the tin mouse was?"

"He's hiding under that board," The rubber dog was so overjoyed said the napkin bunny. "I've been watching so he couldn't get away."

"Are you there, Mister Mouse?" called Mister Fuzz Wuzz sharply.

"No," came a squeaky voice. "I'm not here at all! But if I was, I wouldn't come out anyway with that old cat there."

The patent-leather cat trembled with rage, but said nothing.

"Then we shall try you where you are," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "Now give us your testimony."

"My wh—what?" came the voice. "I never had anything like that in all my life."

"I mean, tell us all you know about the peanut boy's broken nose," said the pipe-cleaner man. "Did you or did you not break it?"

"Never did! Cross my heart!" came the tin mouse's voice promptly.

"Well, it's all the same thing," declared Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "You jumped at the pin-cushion lady, and she fell on the wooden waddle duck and he skidded and frightened the tin soldier's horse, and he stepped on the peanut boy and broke his nose. So it's your fault."

At that the tin mouse came popping out. "Yes, but who scared me?" he squeaked. "I was running from that cat there—and it's all his fault!"

Patent leather puss would have blushed if he hadn't been so black. But he looked guilty and tried to sneak away.

"No sir! Come back here and pay the peanut boy one penny for damages," cried Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "Either that or go to jail for a week."

"I'll pay," said Puss meekly, that he whistled through the top of his head again.
